FARMERS INSTITUTES ATTRACT CROWDS AND DO MUCH GOOD

County High School Students and Farmers Hear Experts Speak on Subjects of Vital Interest To Farms.

The two days' Farmers' Institutes at the Rectorville and Mayslick High Schools close today and they have been great successes in every way success could be measured. The crowds at both Rectorville and Mayslick yesterday were large and today it is expected that the attendance will be much larger.

The programs were most interesting and instructive and will no doubt do much good not only among the children of the schools but also among the farmers and farmers' wives who took advantage of the opportunity to hear these vital subjects discussed by men and women who know.

The Sardis and Washington High Schools were taken to the Mayslick School in a body yesterday, and the youngsters enjoyed the program very much. The moving pictures were quite instructive and especially enjoyed by the students.

Several people from Maysville are contemplating a visit to the Institutes today.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO HOME FUND GROWS

Kentuckians "Boarding Out" Send Large Contributions to "Home Fund."

Contributions for the fund which will be used to purchase "Federal Hill," Bardonia, where Stephen Collins Foster wrote "My Old Kentucky Home," are increasing in volume. Ex-patriates from all sections of the United States are sending donations.

"Once a Kentuckian, always a Kentuckian," has not lost its meaning. Men and women exiled from their native state for many years are taking this opportunity of showing that they remember and long for the "meadows in the bloom."

But the property should be bought for practical reasons as well as sentimental ones, according to the Louisville Board of Trade which has adopted resolutions endorsing the project to make the estate a shrine to the composer.

"The preservation of such relics and places," the resolutions say, "and their veneration by our people will make Kentucky attractive to travelers and tend to increase the respect and interest the state should command from the world. . . . Where State pride and state interests exist population and investment are attracted."

SUNDAY SCHOOLS IN SPLENDID SHAPE FOR BIG CAMPAIGN

Mason County Schools Were Never In Better Condition for Go-To-Sunday School Drive Than Now.

Just two weeks from Sunday until Kentucky's eighth "Go-to-Sunday-School-Day". The campaign this year has been on different, and much better lines than on any previous year. First the schools were urged to improve their organization. That was during the month of February. During March the work of evangelization was carried on, thus preparing the way for an aggressive movement during April to bring in new members. The work in Mason county is in better shape than for years. Practically every school is in line for the campaign. The next two weeks will be the time for visiting, inviting, and if needs be—compelling—the people to come in, as was done in the Savior's time on earth. Window cards, tags and programs will be sent to every school in the county next week. They are urged to at once have the cards in every home. If the home sets too far back from the road to be seen, post the card at the entrance to the farm. Let the world know that you are going to Sunday school. Then the tags can be used to help with your personal invitation. Wear a tag yourself and urge everyone you come in contact with to do the same.

The programs are the official program gotten out by the state association. It is no wise aim to take the place of the lesson period or any of the regular exercises of the school. Schools should give plenty of time for the lesson period. For that is the day when many strangers are going to form an opinion of how the Bible is taught in your Sunday school. Teachers should spend much time in study and prayer, preparing for this important service. Don't forget to report your attendance—this is very important.

BREAD PRICES DROP IN LEXINGTON.

The Lexington Leader says: A cut of two cents per loaf has been announced by all bakeries in Lexington manufacturing a pound and a half loaf of bread. The cut was from 15 cents straight, the former price on that sized loaf, to 13 cents, or two loaves for 25 cents. Lower prices for raw materials was given as the reason for the reduction. Bakeries making only the one-pound loaf said Wednesday no reduction from the standard price of 10 cents is being considered. The price of rolls and cookies was also reduced from 20 cents to 15 cents per dozen by the bakeries announcing the reduction in the price of bread. A number of other bakeries in the city said their price on rolls has been 15 cents per dozen for several months.

COUNTY FAIR AT THE WASHINGTON TONIGHT

Interesting Old Race Horse Story Will Be Presented In Picture Tonight and Saturday.

In the annals of rural and racing plays no equine star of the American stage was ever quite so well beloved as Cold Molasses who carried Neil Burgess and his play "The County Fair" through years of recurring triumphs upon the stage. Now Maurice Tourneus has transferred this fine story to the screen and made it the outstanding hit of the year upon the motion picture roster.

This rare attraction is at the Washington tonight and Gem tomorrow night. It comes here with the backing of great hits in New York, Chicago and elsewhere throughout the country where it has been given a world of special exploitation.

The story is a familiar one of a typical New England farm community church full of plain people living their simple lives and pouring out for its big climax to the county fair. This familiar American institution is reproduced in interesting detail. The high spots are where Wesley Barry the famous freckle-faced kid, of the screen chased a greased pig, climbed the slippery pole and does other stunts dear to juvenile heart of America on any sunny day at the county fair.

The climax is the great race in which Cold Molasses struggles against crooks and schemers to win the big purse and save the farm for honest Aunt Abigail and her worthy associates who have striven to bring about this deserved and happy termination. Tourneus has caught the note of the familiar play and enlarged upon it in such a way that his production spreads charm and happiness through an evening of mixed emotions and delights. Little wonder that it is the talk of the country and the outstanding hit of the season in the big picture houses. Wherever it has been presented the returns all indicate that it fills a long felt want in the theaters.

MAY COMPLETE WORK ON DAVIS SHAFT BY AUTUMN

$60,000 Is Needed to Finish Monument At Fairview to Confederate President.

The Jefferson Davis monument at Fairview, Ky., the birthplace of the Confederate President, will be completed as soon as possible, it was decided at a meeting in Louisville of the committeemen from the United Daughters of the Confederacy, the Sons of Veterans and the United Confederate Veterans. A joint committee was appointed to visit Fairview to make a survey of the incomplete monument and to obtain an estimate on the amount necessary to complete it. Mrs. George R. Mastin, of Lexington, a member of the committee, returned yesterday from the meeting.

The fund was started by a gift of $50,000 from Major Littlefield, of Austin, Texas, and $60,000 more is needed. Leaders in the movement hope the amount necessary will be raised in time to allow work to be started in the autumn.

The monument will be 250 feet high when completed and will be second only to Washington monument in height. The state legislature has agreed to take over and maintain the park of nineteen acres when the monument is finished.

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS HERE SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Maysville Team Meets Norwood at League Park for First Game of the Season Tomorrow Afternoon — Will Play Again Sunday.

The baseball season in Maysville will open at League Park Saturday afternoon with a rather elaborate celebration. There will be a band concert by the Maysville Boys' Band and Judge C. D. Newell, Judge H. P. Purnell and Mayor Thomas M. Russell will make short talks before the announcement of the game.

The Boys' Band will march from the band stand in Market street to League Park leaving the Market street stand at about 2 o'clock. It is expected that the game will be called at about 3 o'clock and a very large attendance is expected.

Officials of the club this evening announced the lineup for the season as follows: Dico and Reese, catchers; Fitch, McClord and Duley, pitchers; Dresel, first; Parsons, second; Shanklin, short, and Meyers, third; Williams, Quigley, Peterson and Means, fielders. It is expected that Fitch will pitch the Saturday afternoon game. The Norwood team is reported as being a very strong aggregation of ball players.

The stand is expected to be completed so that there will be seats for those who would attend and it is hoped that the people of Maysville will turn out en masse to encourage the boys who are endeavoring to give the city a high class sort of baseball for this year. Encourage the team by giving them strong support and watch this delegation win some high honors for Maysville this season.

OUR POLICY:

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

THE OLD ORDER CHANGETH.

What more natural than in Hungary, the land par excellence of comic opera, we should now observe the supreme manifestation of the ludicrous upon the international stage? Many things, indeed, we have been treated to by way of comic relief—the reign of liberty, light and poetic patriotism in Finne; self-determination gloriously determining nothing at all in Silesia; the gospel of industrial democracy and divinely appointed communism applied to the nomad tribes of the Middle East, who never saw a factory and don't know what capital is; but this last of a monarchist coup in Hungary is beyond them all. And there is, too, something pathetic in the business, the picture of Charles of Austria, King of Hungary, lineal product of the Holy Roman Empire, not yet able to appreciate that all the royalty and all the titles in the world do not, in this day and age, move men's minds with a fraction of the force that comes from the unlovely desire to get enough to eat and a decent way of living. The practicalities of the situation have usurped the field, and all the fine old talk of loyalty and devotion have even vanished into emptiness before the pressing appearance of reality.

I have had enough of exile and deprivation (said Charles) and now am coming back as your liege lord. I am convinced the population will receive me enthusiastically and rally round my banner.

A sad conviction! It takes more than banners in these days to induce populations to rally with enthusiasm; rather must emperors adopt the Bolshevik method and promise bursting dinner pails and division of riches if they are to secure the support of their peoples. The old language is no longer spoken; people no longer conduct themselves as in "The Prisoner of Zenda"; the monarchist habit has been broken up—except for the monarchists! And therein lies the pathos of the situation. Of all the people in Hungary, perhaps Charles is the only one who could not appreciate that the old phrases like "liege lord," which were never more than conventions, have even ceased to be that, and become utterly without meaning.

A picture worthy of remembrance is furnished by the account of Charles' meeting with the Regent. Going to the palace and changing to the uniform of a general, the emperor sent the imperious demand: "I want to see Admiral Horthy. Send him to me." To which the Regent responded that he was the head of the state and would obey summons from no one. And even then, apparently, Charles could not appreciate the true value of the situation, for when he at last met the Regent he pinned an order to his breast at the very moment when Horthy was explaining gently but firmly that he could not hand over power even to Charles. But, it is recorded, "Horthy accepted the cross." Finer irony than that we have not yet observed. — Baltimore News.

GREEK MEETS TURK.

The Balkans and the Near East must have their little wars or die of ennui. When the London Conference had settled everything nicely, as it appeared, and had taken back the gifts which it had made to Greece, Constantine refused to play the game and began a campaign to whip the Turkish Nationalists single handed.

French military experts, backed by the English, advised against the rash enterprise. The French, in particular, felt very strongly that Kemal was a power to be reckoned with. So much did they respect him that they not only agreed to retire from Cilien, which they held for exploitation, but they also returned to the Turks a big slice of Northern Syria, with a number of important centers.

But the Greeks refused to listen to any monitory words, and pushed on toward Angora, announcing that they would hold the capital of the Nationalists in their hands in a few short weeks.

They did advance as far as Eski-Shehr, the key to Angora, but after a bloody battle lasting nine days they were completely routed, losing some of their principal officers and five thousand men. The whole army has been compelled to retreat.

It is the same old age-long struggle which has kept the two races and the two religions in turmoil and murderous strife for so many generations.

The Greeks, unless the Allies are false to their own avowals and are secretly supplying them with military and financial aid, have not the resources essential for a long war, and may find, if they appear to be succeeding, that they are facing not only the Turks but the Russians.

The whole region in which these operations are stages is a magazine which may explode and involve Europe once more in a terrible conflagration.

The question arises, what is the function of the League of Nations? It is reported to be a going concern. It was organized, presumptively, for just such a crisis. So far it has made its existence known only by absolute quiescence, and might, so far as appearances indicate, be deaf, dumb and blind.

However, if the United States was only a member, something would be done. No doubt! American soldiers would be ordered to Asia Minor to stop the quarrel by force. Which would be very well if only the members of the League to Enforce Peace were drafted.

"SUFFER LITTLE CHILDREN—"

Sixty thousand children romped on the White House lawns on Easter Monday, enjoying their annual sport of egg rolling, a custom peculiar to the National Capital. It was the first time since 1916 that the high iron gates have been opened to welcome them. It is another evidence of the spirit of democracy that pervades the home of President Harding.

Poor Carl. Switzerland has notified him to move on. This business of being a king is some job. There are few of us now who would trade jobs with a king.

TO PAY NATIONAL DEBT
THROUGH SINKING FUND

Republican Leaders Intend To Use
Billion Paid By Houston To Lessening Taxes.

Washington. — Prevention of a financial deficit which might be brought about by a continuance of the policy of the Wilson administration of paying off a billion dollars during the last year on the national debt will be one of the moves of the new administration.

That this is a move for the benefit of the taxpayer may be gathered from the fact that without this huge payment on the national debt, taxes may be perceptibly diminished. Thus the excess profits taxes and the surtaxes, which have been passed on to the consumer until prices have been kited out of sight, will be removed or greatly reduced.

It was provided by the last Congress that the national debt shall be paid at the rate of 2½ per cent. of the aggregate amount of victory and liberty bonds outstanding on July 1, 1920, less an amount equal to the par amount of any obligations of foreign governments held by the United States on that date. This percentage amounts to $253,000,000 and the debt will by this means be paid in twenty-five years without great burden to the country.

Secretary of the Treasury Houston, however, just before he went out of office, said that "the war debt should be paid, not perpetuated, and the time to pay it is as soon as possible after the end of the war." In other words, in spite of the fact that the business depression which naturally followed heavy importations of foreign goods without any protective tariff to safeguard American producers, and in spite of the reasoning that it is better to let the entire next generation pay for the war from which it will benefit, the head of the treasury in the Wilson administration is of the opinion that the debt should be paid off immediately and at enormous sacrifices. And yet it was this same Secretary of the Treasury, backed up by his chief, President Wilson, who permitted the nations of Europe which had borrowed from us to forego their interest.

INVESTIGATION OF
RAILROADS TO BE ASKED OF CONGRESS

Senator Cummins Will Ask Thorough
Investigation of Railroads
Upon Convening of Congress.

Washington, D. C. — Immediately on the convening of the special session of Congress, Senator Albert B. Cummins, Chairman of the Committee on Interstate Commerce, will introduce a resolution for a thorough investigation of the railroad situation. The investigation will be designed to ascertain why it is that with the largest gross earnings in their history and as high freight and passenger rates as there is a possibility of obtaining, the roads are, nevertheless, earning a net operating income of only a fraction of one per cent. upon the valuation of their property. Senator Cummins deems this the most vital problem before the country today, for it is obvious that the transportation system can not continue under the present conditions.

The situation, as Senator Cummins sees it, may be briefly stated. During 1920 the gross operating revenue of the railroads — the receipts from freight and passenger service — aggregated $6,225,000,000. The expense of operation during the same period — not including interest on indebtedness or dividends on stock — amounted to about $6,215,000,000. On the year's business there was a net operating income of some $10,000,000, this constituting the returns as a whole upon property valued by the Interstate Commerce Commission in a tentative way at $18,800,000,000.

The amount of traffic handled by the railroads during 1920 was the greatest in their history. It is not likely that they can count upon increased revenue through any increase in traffic within the next few years. Since it is impracticable for the railroads to earn more revenue, Senator Cummins believes the solution of the problem must be found in the only other alternative — reduction of expenses. Whether this is practicable and in what particular, will be the main subject of the inquiry he will begin within a very few days.

Savings in expenditures may be grouped under a very few classifications — better management; reduced expenditures for wages; lower cost of fuel; reduction in prices for lumber, ties, steel, etc. From information received from various sources students of the subject are of the opinion that $400,000,000 per year could be saved without any reduction in the basic pay of employees if rules and working conditions were changed so that there would be no pay for work not done. Under rules put in force while the roads were under Government control probably half of the employees of the railroads receive at one time or another compensation for which they render no service. For instance, the station agent at a village where trains stop only three times a day, and who perhaps spends only three or four hours per day at the station, receives overtime compensation if arrival of his trains is spread over a period of more than ten hours. Under a regulation established by former Director of Railroads McAdoo, employees are paid for one hour per week for punching the clock as they enter the ships. This alone costs the railroads $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 a year. So far as service to the public is concerned it seems to be on a par with the ordinary business man paying his clerk for one hour per week for knocking up his hat in the morning or a farmer paying his farm hand for one hour extra per week for washing his face before breakfast. Other regulations which specify the class of employees who shall perform particular work and present repairs being made by any competent man who happens to be available, add to needless expense.

All these questions relative to the management, cost of supplies, and equitable adjustment of compensation of labor, will be taken up as expeditiously as possible by the committee of which Senator Cummins is Chairman in order that Congress and the country may be advised of possible solutions of the present perplexing problem and an early remedy supplied. Legislation already in effect is adequate for the settlement in a fair and impartial way of all these questions, but Senator Cummins is of the opinion, with which all people will agree, that the public ought to be made familiar with the facts, and that can only be accomplished through an open inquiry at which the press of the country will be present and which will give the statements of all the interested parties the publicity which their importance demands.

New York Letter

New York. — Every once in a while, especially along in the springtime, we get a bit of vagrant evidence that we are not, after all, so uncivilized as we had feared—that there is still the spirit of the adventurer afloat, even in our biggest and most ease-loving cities. There is such welcome testimony in this ad which appeared in a New York city paper the other day: "ADVENTURER — Have captain license, any ocean, offers services on any mission within the law; experienced on missions and expeditions; no family ties." Of course it's a shame-worthy thought, but we almost wish he hadn't put in that "within the law". Maybe, though, he didn't mean it — absolutely.

But to crush out any joy one may take from that breezy ad, comes the announcement that a clever woman who was formerly a half-dressed has started an establishment in Manhattan which she frankly advertises as "a beauty parlor for men". It is her object, she explains, "to improve the appearance of her customers, beautify them, and tell them what clothes suit their style of beauty." Although she has only opened her establishment, she doesn't lack customers. I wonder if "ADVENTURER" could be persuaded to throw overboard his "within the law" inclination long enough to abash them!

A startling story of bondage right here in the United States has been revealed by Ruth Crawford, Director of Immigrant Service of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. It is the story of a Lettish girl who fled from the Polish to this country with a Russian farmer and his wife, and has been held prisoner by them on their little farm in Maine, for three whole years. Many Dailydites, a Lithuanian Y. W. worker, found the girl through information given her by a peddler whose asuspensions had been aroused. When the man and his wife were confronted, they made no denial and let the girl be taken away without resistance. It sounds amazing that a girl, well-educated, speaking two languages, could be so victimized. But she was told that she wouldn't be allowed to leave the farm without a government passport, and was held in fear of everything in the world beyond the boundaries of the Russian's patch of land. The Y. W. placed her in their International Institute and is making an effort to reach her own people in Europe. "This is only one instance of the unusual kinds of service we have been able to give many times, through our foreign workers," Miss Crawford said.

Out-of-towners accuse denizens of the metropolis of being unappreciative of their own places of beauty and of historic interest. They always tell one challengingly of how the Metropolitan Museum is seen only by visitors and that no one from Greater New York has EVER climbed up into the statue of the Goddess of Liberty. One native New Yorker has been discovered to refute that charge. Even if she is only a child, she is duly impressed with our sights. Her mother and a caller stopped outside her door the other evening to eavesdrop on her prayers. "Make father good," she was saying, "and when he dies, please let him be buried in Grant's Tomb."

A new play by Augustus Thomas always has been something of interest and now that it has been so long since we've had one, it has a special call upon one's attention. "Nemeses," which opened the other night, runs true to forms in that the playwright has a definite idea which has evidently interested him for a long time, and upon which he has built a play. It is the idea that finger-print clues may be all, all wrong, and may be used by plotting villains to send innocent men to prison or to death. It is an interesting play, well-done, but rather terrible, in some ways. It is the story of an unhappy marriage, which finally reaches the point where the husband kills the wife and by means of faked finger prints, has her lover convicted and electrocuted for the murder.

LUCY JEANNE PRICE.

LUCAS FAVORED AS REVENUE COLLECTOR

Appointment of Louisville Man Is Recommended By Ernst and Hert At Washington.

Washington, April 14. — Robert H. Lucas, was recommended this week by Senator Richard P. Ernst and National Committeeman Alvin T. Hert for collector of internal revenue for the district of Kentucky to succeed Elwood Hamilton. The senator and Mr. Hert made a personal call upon Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon and urged the appointment of Mr. Lucas, and it is not improbable that the President will include his name in a list of nominations he is expected to send to the Senate this week.

While patronage distribution has been uppermost in the deliberations of Senator Ernst, Mr. Hert and other Kentucky Republicans for some time, it appears that nothing has been definitely agreed upon as yet beyond the recommendation of Mr. Lucas for internal revenue collector.

Sawyer Smith, of Barbourville, for United States attorney for the eastern district, and McKenzie Moss, of Bowling Green, for United States attorney for the western district, seem reasonably certain of appointment, but the entire slate may be changed at any time.

Sam Collins, of Whitesburg, who was supposed to be slated for marshal of the eastern district, has not been agreed upon definitely. It is stated, and William E. Ross of Louisville who was expected to be named for marshal in the western district, is believed to have lost out.

COMMERCE FOR SERVICE WITH HOOVER AS GUIDE

Cooperation With Producers and the Stimulation of American Initiative Will Be His Aim.

Washington. — Co-operation between the government and industry to the end of enhanced production and lessened unemployment is the first policy proposed by Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce. He says:

"The Department of Commerce should be in the widest sense a department of service to the commerce and industry of the country. It is not a department for the regulation of trade and industry. In order to do service to the greatest advantage I wish to establish a wider and better organized co-operation with the trade and commercial associations, and will in a short time present some plans to this end. I want to see our efforts to push our foreign commerce more closely related to our industries. This sort of enlarged activity is within the original purpose of the department, and requires neither legislation nor burden upon taxpayers. This is no time to ask for appropriations to undertake new work. It is time to search for economy and reorganization for effective expenditure on essentials, and the reduction of non-essentials, and the elimination of duplication.

"Outside of voluntary measures, the only immediate extension of service lies in securing greater internal efficiency in which I am certain all the bureaus join. The future of the department in its abilities to meet the needs of our industries and trade must await the thorough reorganization of the whole executive machinery, now being vigorously undertaken by Congress. The need of it, both in economy and to secure more definite purpose in government departments, does not need demonstration.

"The great economic difficulties that we inherit from the war are obvious enough and they emphasize the necessity of better governmental machinery to assist in their solution. Their final remedy must rest on the initiative of our own people—the rate of recovery can be expedited by greater co-operation in the community and with the community by the government, and this department and the whole government wishes to assist wherever it can to stimulate and assist this co-operation.

"In the long run, we may as well realize that we must face a lower standard of living in Europe many years ahead. The production costs of her people will in consequence be lower than even before the war. If we meet this competition and still maintain our high standards of living we will have to work harder; we will have to eliminate waste; we will need to still further improve our processes, our labor relationship, and business methods."

LOGAN COMBS ESTATE OF $100,000 SOLELY TO WIDOW.

Hazard, Ky. — The will of Logan Combs, who died two weeks ago leaving a nestate of $100,000, was admitted to probate. By the instrument the entire estate is left to the widow, who is named executrix without bond.

FRANKLINIZING THE ADMINISTRATION.

Washington. — The Harding administration has adopted the old maxim that "a penny saved is a penny earned," and that "many a mickle makes a mickle." The administration also recognizes the force of the doctrine preached by Benjamin Franklin, "Beware of little expenses; a small leak will sink a great ship." In one instance after another the new managers of government business are plugging off expenses and paying the way for an ultimate reduction of taxes. That the reduction cannot come soon is evident, for there is a fixed burden of interest charges there is a floating debt to be paid, and bonds soon coming due to be met. But at every opportunity, small or great, the Harding cabinet is clipping pay rolls and other current expenditures.

Expansion was the policy of the Wilson administration from the beginning. Although denunciation of the Republicans for alleged extravagance was the slogan of the Democrats in the campaign of 1912 which brought them into power, they increased the number of government employees from the very day they took over the control of the administrative departments. Moreover, this increase in the number of employees, with establishment of new bureaus, requiring the leasing of more office space, with all the other incidental expense that goes with the maintenance of government bureaus. Expansion took place under the Democratic administration before the war began, but, of course, it increased at a rapid rate after the United States entered the conflict. After the armistice was signed the Wilson administration resisted every effort at curtailment of government activities.

Among the first of the retrenchment efforts of the Harding administration is the removal of government bureaus and commissions from rented to government-owned buildings, thus saving considerable sums spent for rent and increasing efficiency by getting the bureaus closer together where time can be saved and public business expedited. Notwithstanding the large number of office buildings erected by the government, and the large amount of vacant office space in those buildings, some of the government bureaus and commissions have continued to operate in rented offices. The Republican administration is changing this policy as rapidly as possible.

One of the early changes to be made is the removal of the Shipping Board offices from one of the most centrally located and expensive blocks in the heart of the city to the new Navy building—said to be one of the largest office buildings in the world. At present the Shipping Board not only occupies expensive rented quarters in the heart of the city but part of its work is conducted in a branch office nearly a mile from the main office. Under the new arrangement all the Shipping Board work will be brought under one roof.

Another change in the interest of both economy and efficiency is the removal of the International Boundary Commission from rented quarters to a government building occupied by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. To some extent the work of the Boundary Commission and the Geodetic Survey will be co-ordinated, thus permitting the discontinuance of some offices and the utilization of the Geodetic Survey's mapping equipment in the work of the Boundary Commission.

These, by themselves, are small matters, yet they are items in the long list of opportunities for saving public funds by adoption of better business methods—and the Harding administration is tackling the economy program in a very practical manner.

FETTERED DAUGHTER SAYS FRIENDS ARE NOT ARMING.

Louisville, Ky., April 13. — "Beverly White's friends and sons are not arming and there is no danger of any outbreak," says Miss Daisy Pryor White, White's daughter, in a letter to The Louisville Times.

John Bailey is being held on the charge of slaying White.

Miss White says: "Neither Beverly Pryor White, Jr., sons, nephews nor brothers ever had any trouble with any Bailey at any place or any time. White has a host of friends who met his family and offered sympathy, but White's friends and sons are not arming and there is no cause to fear an outbreak."

FLOYD SIZEMORE SHOT TO DEATH WITH BOY'S RIFLE.

Jackson, Ky. — Tolbert Turner, 22 years old, shot and killed Floyd Sizemore, on Canoe Creek, 12 miles from Jackson. It is charged. The shooting took place near the home of William Stamper and close to the place where George Combs killed Bert Little some time ago. Sizemore's wife was formerly the wife of a brother of Turner. Their 14-year-old son was standing nearby with a .22-caliber rifle, which Turner seized and shot Sizemore. It is alleged.

DOCTOR-PREACHER WORKS
CURES IN MARLAN COUNTY.

Paintsville, April 15—Doctor Anderson, of Louisa, who retired from the practice of medicine some time ago to become a Baptist minister, held a remarkable clinic here. Hundreds of afflicted people from this and adjoining counties stood in line for two days. His ministrations were free to all, and several remarkable cures were reported. One man who has been on crutches for years was able to walk away unaided. It is the first time that medicine and faith have been combined when treating the sick in this section, the physician holding two services at the Baptist church.

KERR APPOINTMENT BELIEVED CERTAIN.

Louisville, Ky., April 15.—Former Congressman King Swope, of Danville, Ky., probably will be appointed one of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty's assistants, with a salary of at least $5,000 a year, according to reliable information obtained here last night.

It also is probable, it was said, that the Attorney General will designate former Governor Augustus E. Willson to handle any litigation that may develop here during the Harding administration.

It has been decided definitely in Washington, the informant said, that Judge Charles Kerr, of Lexington, will be made federal judge of the Canal Zone, the appointment to take effect about June 1. Judge Kerr will have the distribution of considerable patronage.
